

STREETWISE

EMPOWERING PEOPLE TO WORK

ANNUAL REPORT 2014

FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

As the new Executive Director of StreetWise, I am pleased to present you with our annual report for 2014. StreetWise is a dynamic and innovative organization that provides access to the resources people need to bring dignity and self-sufficiency to their lives. Every week we publish the StreetWise magazine with socially-conscious and Chicago-centric content. We sell the magazine to the vendors for $0.90 who in turn sell the magazine for $2, making a $1.10 profit on each sale. They are vendors and this is their job! Last year our vendors sold over 277,000 magazines.

StreetWise is more than a magazine! It is a multi-faceted organization that empowers people to work through the Transitional Jobs Program and through supportive services that eliminate barriers to employment. In 2014, 275 individuals received direct assistance, referrals, and advocacy to improve housing, access public benefits, secure food, clothing, and transportation vouchers, plus connections to health and wellness services. In addition to these services, each day we provide hot meals, thanks to our partners at The Salvation Army and First Slice, as well as access to a computer lab and phones in a communal environment.

The StreetWise Transitional Jobs Program assists at-risk individuals in finding and maintaining sustainable employment. The program offers two-week job readiness and soft skills training combined with job search assistance and job coaching. In 2014 sixty five individuals completed the curriculum; 35% obtained employment and 90% sustained employment. In the following pages you will read about our participants and the impact of StreetWise on their lives. You will also get a glimpse inside our finances and meet our Board of Directors, staff, and Associates Board.

Your support as purchasers, donors, volunteers, and ambassadors is critical to our ability to pursue more innovative and unique strategies to empower people to work and to advocate for individuals who are improving their lives and the lives of the families. Thank you for being a part of our community and contributing to both individual and collective success.

It is my privilege to lead the StreetWise commitment to a more economically just society where people can get a hand up and work with dignity.

FROM THE STREETWISE BOARD CHAIR

The faces of StreetWise light up the sidewalk as vendors sell the StreetWise magazine throughout the city. Each day these heroes fight the stigma of poverty by working hard to create a better, healthier life for themselves and their families. Our organization is characterized and recognized by their street presence—giving StreetWise, the organization, brand recognition of over 90%.

90% doesn't tell the whole story. While the magazine delivers job training, social service support, and immediate income for those who are at the lowest rungs of the economic ladder, the story doesn't stop there. Every day we work with individuals, who but for a lucky break or two, could be you or me. These individuals held jobs in the service sector, perhaps in middle management, possibly in construction or telemarketing or home health services. They lost their spouse, their home, their health, sometimes their freedom. Perhaps sobriety was lost as well. They were excluded from the traditional labor market. StreetWise helps these individuals find themselves and their lives again with food and community, health and legal assistance, computer and financial literacy; with soft-skill jobs training and a return to the workplace through our expanding jobs program.

StreetWise is a social enterprise, dedicated to finding innovative ways to help people in need with job opportunities. We operate business units such as the magazine and build alliances such as the E.A.T. (Education, Agriculture + Technology) program, the 2012 trial Neighbor Carts mobile produce program, and more. We are constantly looking for effective, innovative ways to help individuals regain control of their lives through gainful employment.

REVENUES $826,651

We're happy to report that 2014 was another year of solid financial footing. Six years ago we were not able to make that statement, and with the substantial support of private donors, foundations, board members and community members, we recovered, grew and stabilized. Now it's time to grow again.

In early 2015 we embraced change with a new Executive Director, Julie Youngquist. Julie has already created new operational benchmarks and analytical tools to make more informed decisions. Under her leadership, the staff has reorganized and refocused service delivery. Community outreach is growing. The magazine has a fresh new look. As the previous board chair, Pete Kadens said, "We are well on our way to becoming a Perpetual Enterprise."

EXPENSES $770,341

We at StreetWise are humbled by our donor and community support. Philanthropic giving through individual donations and foundation grants and our annual gala remains our largest source of income. We are honored to be able to support those in need of a hand-up with opportunities for employment. Please reach out to our Executive Director to find out how you can get connected to a pool of qualified, prescreened candidates, receive business/financial incentives during the first 30 days of candidate employment, and qualify for work opportunity credits. Reach out to partner with us if you have individuals who need immediate jobs to comply with probation requirements. Reach out to us if you are on the street, at risk of losing your home, or need an opportunity to start over. We offer a hand to all. WE ARE THE MAGAZINE AND SO MUCH MORE.

AGENCY OVERVIEW

StreetWise, Inc. is a dynamic and innovative employment agency that empowers people to work and provides access to the resources they need to bring dignity and self-sufficiency to their lives. The StreetWise model offers immediate access to employment through the Magazine Vendor Program. For those seeking traditional employment, the Transitional Jobs Program offers intensive job readiness and placement opportunities. These programs are supported by the social services program that provides direct assistance, referral and advocacy around housing, income stability, food and clothing, linkages to medical or mental health services, substance abuse or domestic violence services, as well as referrals for legal services.

In 2014, StreetWise empowered and advocated for 650 individuals.

VISION

The StreetWise vision is an economically just society where individuals gain self-sufficiency through the dignity of employment. StreetWise exists so panhandling doesn't have to!

GOALS

EMPOWER PEOPLE TO WORK through immediate access to employment through the Magazine Vendor Program and the Transitional Jobs Program.

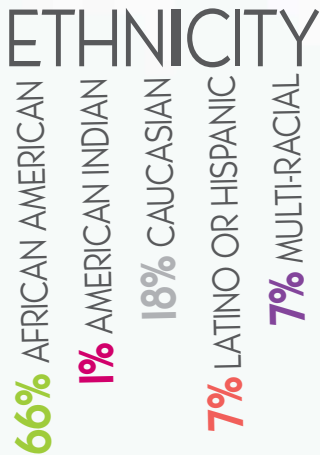

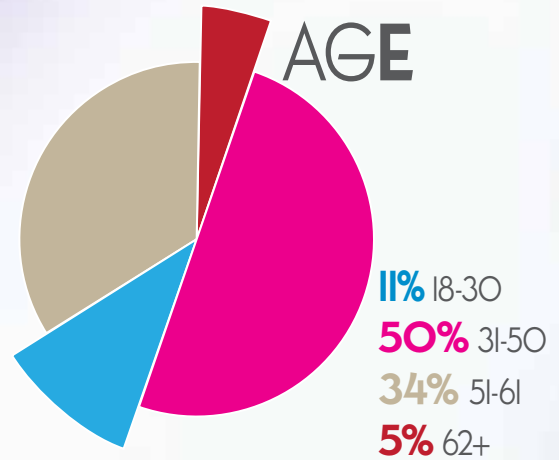

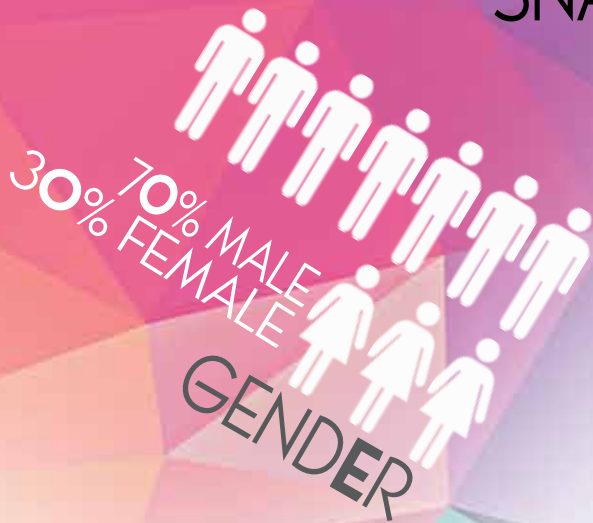

PROVIDE ACCESS TO RESOURCES through social and supportive services to meet basic needs and to improve housing, income, and well-being.

ADVOCATE for a strengthened safety net, access to resources, and employment opportunities for individuals who want to improve their lives and the lives of their families.

MISSION

To empower those facing homelessness or at risk of homelessness by providing access to resources and employment opportunities so individuals can work toward self-sufficiency with dignity.

MAGAZINE VENDOR PROGRAM

The StreetWise vendors are entrepreneurs. They earn their money! The StreetWise badge has more than their picture or identification number. The badge gives a vendor the right to sell the magazine on public property. But it is so much more than a badge - it is a symbol of pride, human dignity, and making an honest living. The badge distinguishes a vendor from a panhandler. The badge also is a symbol of community as vendors assist, support and advocate for their fellow vendors.

LOOK FOR THE BADGE!

Behind the badge is a trained, recognized, and legitimate entrepreneur looking for a hand up, not a hand-out. For more information about the magazine sales program contact Tony Taylor at ttaylor@streetwise.org or call (773) 334-6600.

PROFILE: DON PARTICIPANT OF THE YEAR

Don was recognized as Participant of the Year at the 2014 StreetWise Gala for engaging with all of the services at StreetWise to move from unemployment, to selling the StreetWise magazine, to finding employment doing maintenance at Cornerstone. He is independent, self-sufficient and supporting his family because of his connection to StreetWise.

Growing up in Cabrini Green Don had few options and fewer resources. He struggled to find a job, living day to day, with growing frustration for his future. In 1995, that all began to change. Don walked into StreetWise to join the community of vendors who are looking to improve their lives. After orientation and a few years of coaching, Don selected his final spot, 1100 N. Dearborn, where he has been selling the magazine every weekend there for the past 12 years. "When I first got to that spot people tried to run me away, but I stuck around. I wasn't even making money at first," Don said, but "I just kept coming back and introducing myself to people." He credits his success to being at the spot on a regular basis, staying humble, keeping a smile, and staying sober. "The stereotype with StreetWise vendors is that they are homeless or drug addicts or whatever. It is not about being homeless, it is about helping yourself," Don said.

And Don took full advantage of all of the opportunities to help himself. He participated in the StreetWise Transitional Jobs program and translated some of the skills he learned to be a successful vendor into the workplace. Two years ago, Don obtained a job doing maintenance at Cornerstone, a shelter for homeless. Between magazine sales and his maintenance job, Don is supporting his family, spending time with his 30-year old son; he has dedicated himself to caring for his 84-year-old mother as she did for him. "When I first started it was a struggle, but I stuck in there, and look at me now, it turned out fine," Don said.

"I WANT TO THANK GOD AND THANK STREETWISE FOR BEING OPEN AND GIVING ME THIS CHANCE TO GET MY LIFE ON TRACK. IF IT WASN'T FOR STREETWISE, THERE IS NO TELLING WHERE I WOULD BE."

TRANSITIONAL JOBS PROGRAM

StreetWise Transitional Jobs Program (TJP) is aimed at assisting at-risk job seekers in finding and maintaining sustainable employment. We help individuals eliminate barriers and overcome obstacles to employment and self-sufficiency.

EMPOWERING PEOPLE TO WORK!

- A Job Specialist completes the intake process to verify employment eligibility as well as assess skills and interests.
- The 40-hour training program focuses on workplace skills including communication, time management, professionalism, customer services, and problem-solving.
- An employment mentor assists with resume writing, interviewing skills, job searches, and completing pre-employment requirements.
- All participants have access to ongoing support to maintain employment.

Connecting employers to qualified, eligible and pre-screened employees

- Employers save time and resources as they are connected with a pool of qualified and pre-screened candidates.
- We follow-up with our participants and employer partners to ensure satisfaction after hiring.
- We can provide financial incentives to employers during the first 30 days of employment through our supportive employer program.

In 2014, StreetWise Transitional Job Program graduates obtained employment in the foodservice, hospitality, janitorial, and retail sectors.

Our participants have over a 90% job retention rate.

Our employers consistently report their satisfaction with our program and their new employees.

PARTICIPANT PROFILE: HOPE

Hope came from Africa and settled on the North Side of Chicago. She had a career as a home health worker, but here she struggled to find employment. She learned about the StreetWise Transitional Jobs Program from an advertisement in a StreetWise magazine. She came in and learned that she could access the job readiness program and get individualized assistance in finding a job to support herself and her family.

Hope completed the 40-hour job readiness training and was able to find employment through a temporary staffing agency. When asked about the jobs program Hope said, "I got it through the TJ program. I learned a lot. It encouraged me, helped me, assisted me in my job and I really appreciate it."

Hope's advice for future participants is "be patient and whoever is doing it has to try to test whatever you see. It is not always easy the first time, but when you go into it, you enjoy it. Try to work with passion and care. You will get what you want."

Russell was honored at the 2014 StreetWise Gala as Vendor of the Year for his consistently high sales.

He grew up in Chicago and found work as a printer in a local print shop. He was printing on machines run by hand for over 15 years. As technology began to enter the business and printing became more digitized, Russell lost his job. He didn't have experience doing anything else. He was left unemployed and needed income.

In 2005 Russell found his way to StreetWise to gain immediate access to employment and income. He has been selling magazines at Clark and Lake Streets in the Loop. This is the same spot he sold newspapers for the Sun-Times as a boy. He is there Monday through Friday, which contributes to his high sales. "First of all I have to show up!" said Russell. "Then it is important to be polite to people, speak to them as they go by. You can't be quiet, you need to speak up" he added.

After his shift he travels to StreetWise in Uptown where he works part-time doing maintenance and cleaning. In addition to his sales he earns a regular paycheck. "The big thing is trying to save money. I had a regular job and got a paycheck. Now, working here, I get money everyday. I had to learn how to manage it. I put money away every day, and I use it to pay my bills."

Russell is an avid sports fan; he especially likes the Bulls and Blackhawks. His passion and knowledge contributes to the success of the weekly Sports-Wise column that he helps to create in the magazine each week.

"I WOULD SEE PEOPLE GIVE TO PANHANDLERS AND NOT BUY A MAGAZINE FROM ME. I WOULD FEEL LIKE 'HOW COULD YOU DO THAT?' THIS IS MY JOB, I AM A BUSINESSMAN."

Russell hopes one day to move to Florida to go into business with his brother. For now he is one of the top StreetWise vendors, who appreciates the continued support from all of his customers. Russell's final thought: "I am a hard worker and I am putting that money to good use. I sell magazines, I get money, then I go buy more, making me a businessman. Thank you all very much!"

ASSOCIATES BOARD

The StreetWise Associates Board (AB) was formed to increase awareness and involvement among young professionals throughout Chicago's communities.
